

Information of interest on Glaucus Research

Information publicly available on the website <http://www.Ipetitions.com/petition/open-letter-to-the-sec-to-regulate-market-manipula> about the Glaucus Research, the issuer of the so-called “Research Report”, includes the following:

‘Following on the coattails of other stock manipulators listed here Glaucus has, on multiple occasions, made false and inaccurate claims against companies with the intent of manipulating the stock price through fear, which have been subsequently proven false by independent parties, auditors, lawyers and companies themselves. These false claims have caused significant damage to the reputation of the companies as well caused such a dramatic decrease on the stock prices of the companies that class action lawyers have stepped into to sue the companies as a result of the stock price decline, using purely Glaucus’s false report as evidence. As common with many of these manipulators, Glaucus never has any intent to contact management to ask questions or get clarification before releasing a factually inaccurate report; the sole reason for releasing such a report is to cause confusion and panic to drive the stock price down, thereby allowing the author to profit from the rapid drop in share price.’
